ROSEWATER IS DEAD.

Noted Newspaper Man and prominent Politician

EXPIRES IN A COURT

Deceased, Who Had Filled a Number of Important Positions, Was Overtaken by Grim Reaper While Resting.

Omaha, Aug. 31.—Edward Rosewater, the well known newspaper man and prominent politician, was found dead in district courtroom No. 6, on the third floor of the Bee building, at an early hour today.

Mr. Rosewater, who had gone into the room for a short rest Thursday night, was discovered dead by the janitor of the building. Heart failure caused his death. Deceased had evidently sat down on a bench in the courtroom and fell asleep.

Mr. Rosewater went to Waterloo, Neb., Thursday afternoon and made a speech at a Republican meeting and reached Omaha on his return and went to his office in the Bee building and is known to have been in his office in the evening, but was not seen by members of his family after returning from Waterloo.

When Judge Troup, who presides over court No. 6, arrived at the courtroom Friday morning he was surprised to find the limp, lifeless body of Mr. Rosewater on a bench. The body was removed to his residence.

Dr. Charles Rosewater, a brother of the dead editor, attributed the sudden death of his brother to results which followed the excitement attendant upon a long campaign, in which Mr. Rosewater was a prominent candidate for United States senator.

Edward Rosewater, founder and editor since 1871 of the Omaha Bee, was born at Bukovan, Bohemia, in 1841. He came to the United States in 1854 and began to work as a telegraph operator when eighteen years old. From 1861 to 1863 he was a member of the United States military telegraph corps and in later years became manager of the Pacific Telegraph company at Omaha. He was at various times a member of the advisory board of the United States mint commission and representative of the United States and vice president of the Universal Postal congress. He was the original promoter of the Transmississippi exposition, held at Omaha in 1898. He was a candidate for United States senator before the Republican state convention at Lincoln.

IMPORTANT HEARING.

Matter That Cotton Producing States and Railroads Are Interested In.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A hearing of importance to cotton producing states and to cotton carrying railroads will be held here by the interstate commerce commission Sept. 12. It will relate to a petition that will be received by the commission for authority to change rates and report cotton less thirty days' notice to the commission, which is provided for in the new interstate commerce act. Railroad officials say if the interstate commission insists upon the provision of the new law for thirty days' notice the change of rates to cotton shippers can easily adjust themselves to the situation. It will be necessary for the commission to issue an order as to the matter, but before doing so it has been decided to hear all sides of the question.

TO BE INSTRUCTED.

Filipino Students Will See Methods of Cultivation Employed.

Washington, Aug. 31.—C. W. Sutherland of the bureau of insular affairs, who has charge of the Filipino students being educated in this country at government expense, left Washington for New Orleans. He will make arrangements there to place agricultural students in positions where they may acquire knowledge of methods of growing sugar, tobacco, rice and other crops suited to the Philippine Islands. Whether the students will be placed in southern agricultural schools or on plantations depends upon local conditions, which will have to be met after Mr. Sutherland reaches New Orleans. From that city he will go to meet a party of eight students soon to arrive in this country.

ENTICED LITTLE GIRL.

Wretch Attempted Improper Liberties, Child Screamed and Man Fled.

Denison, Aug. 31.—A man enticed a girl nine years old from home, carried her to an alley and attempted improper liberties with her person. The child screamed for help and the scoundrel fled. The entire police force was at once put to work on the case. The man was arrested and lodged in jail. A formal charge of attempted rape was lodged against him. The child is the daughter of a well known grocer.

Cotton Burns.

Cuero, Tex., Aug. 31.—Two carloads of cotton burned here.

SERIES OF OVATIONS.

From Battery to Hotel Enthusiasm Was Intense.

New York, Aug. 31.—Mr. Bryan's entry into New York was a series of ovations, beginning with his landing at the Battery at 4 o'clock and reaching an early climax when he arrived at the Victoria hotel, Twenty-seventh and Broadway, an hour later. Here the home-coming Nebraskan was fairly mobbed by thousands of persons outside the hotel entrances and the hundreds who had forced their way into the corridors. Finally an entrance was effected by the police, and Mr. Bryan reached the lobby stairs. He was halted and called on for a speech, and the crowd surged about him, cheering lustily all the while.

Mr. Bryan lifted his hand and called for silence.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "I believe that later this evening it is time for me to make a speech, and you must not expect one now. When a man is in a difficulty he has a right to call upon his friends for assistance. I am in a difficulty. I am trying to get home, but I have been traveling so much of late that for the life of me I can hardly tell where my home is."

"In Washington," called an enthusiastic auditor.

"The white house," shouted another. "And we're going to put you there," yelled a third.

Then every one cheered. Mr. Bryan smiled indulgently.

"I thought my home was in Nebraska," he said.

"Only until 1908," shouted the crowd.

"Some said it was in Missouri," added Mr. Bryan, amid laughter. "I've come to the conclusion that if I find friends like this everywhere, I don't care where home is. Soon I'm going to take another course in politics, for at a recent gathering in London, where several languages were spoken, I felt constrained to make excuses because I could speak but one. But I would have to know every language in the world to tell you how much I thank you."

WESTERNERS NUMEROUS.

Blocks Filled With Them Waiting For Bryan to Land.

New York, Aug. 31.—On every train arriving Thursday were scores of men with their families. Westerners were in the majority. Broadway hotels were filled with them. Blocks from Twenty-third street to Forty-second street were filled with typical men of the west waiting for Mr. Bryan to come ashore.

Fourth and Madison avenues and Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets were roped to prevent crowds getting too close to the entrance to Madison Square Garden.

Scores of workmen were in Madison Square Garden early arranging seats and decorations.

Chief Inspector Cartwright, in charge, had under him two inspectors, nine captain, ten sergeants and 600 patrolmen.

JOINED IN PARADE.

Members of the National Democratic Committee Participated.

New York, Aug. 31.—Members of the Democratic national committee now in this city joined in the Bryan procession from the Battery to the Hotel Victoria. They rode in carriages. Seven Nebraskan mayors were included in Mr. Bryan's escort.

Among arrivals Thursday of Democrats from other cities to attend the Bryan reception were Governor Blanchard of Louisiana, Mayor Dunn of Chicago at the head of the Iroquois club; Rierson Jennings, with twenty-five Philadelphia delegates; Governor Swanson, Senators Martin and Daniel and Congressman Flood from Virginia, Governor Folk of Missouri, with a state delegation, Governor Warfield of Maryland, twenty-one delegates from New Hampshire and a delegation from Minnesota.

DRAGGED TO DEATH.

Head and Shoulders of Victim Terribly Mangled.

Alvarado, Tex., Aug. 31.—Near this place the mule team of W. B. Cosgrove of the Willow Grove community ran away. In trying to get off the wagon Mr. Cosgrove's feet became entangled in the harness and he was dragged 200 yards and killed. His head and shoulders were badly crushed and mangled.

FAIRBANKS SPEAKS.

Delivers Address on Spot Fifty Years Ago Made Historic.

Ossawatimie, Kan., Aug. 31.—Here on the battlefield where, a half century ago, the first armed conflict over slavery took place, Vice President Fairbanks delivered on Thursday an address to 6,000 persons. The occasion was the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Ossawatimie, in which John Brown was a central figure.

Muskogee, Aug. 31.—This city is to have another theater.

The eastern railroads forced the Missonri delegation en route to the New York Bryan welcome to strip the Bryan banners from their cars before reaching the metropolis, and it made the democratic pilgrims so hot they adopted sizzling resolutions calling on the country to resent the oppressive spirit manifested in the petty tyranny by triumphantly electing Bryan to the presidency.

This will require the changing of the regulations governing the sale, which were compiled by the general land office to govern the public auction. The work will require but a few days, but President Roosevelt's proclamation will not be issued, declaring the land to be open under certain rules, until the allotments for the Indian children are made.

"No more behind counters" is the watchword at Norwood's, and he and his force are busy rearranging the interior of his store and making ready to receive a big stock of new goods with ready-to-wear goods strongly featured. All counters are turned cross-ways of the store and the base shelves widened out to serve customers from the shelf stock. The arrangement admits of the customer going anywhere in the store to personally examine the stock. The plan is attractive and will doubtless prove popular.

Mr. Guy M. Bryan Jr. who was here yesterday on a visit from Houston, has just received an interesting letter written by him thirty-nine years ago to his uncle, Guy M. THOUSANDS HEAR HIM

Madison Square Garden Contains a Mighty Gathering.

BRYAN AT HIS BEST

Never Before Was There More Enthusiasm Shown in the Metropolitan Celebrated Place For Large Assemblages.

New York, Aug. 31.—Such a welcome as seldom in this country's history has been accorded to a private citizen was given to William Jennings Bryan at Madison Square Garden Thursday night in the celebration of his return from a year's absence in foreign travel.

As the guest of the Commercial Travelers' Anti-Trust league, Mr. Bryan was greeted by more than 20,000 persons, who filled the great structure to the upper gallery. At the same time the streets and avenues outside the garden were choked for blocks by others thousands, who stood patiently for hours for the privilege of even getting a glance at the distinguished visitor. The interior of the garden was a waving sea of color. Every person in the audience had been provided with a miniature American flag, and every cheer from 20,000 throats was accentuated by the waving of 20,000 tiny flags bearing the stars and stripes.

When Chairman Tom L. Johnson, in his introduction of Mr. Bryan, referred to the guest of the evening as "the first citizen, if not the first official," and Mr. Bryan rose, the great gathering broke out in unrestrained cheering, while the band played "Hail to the Chief."

So touched was Mr. Bryan by the welcome that as he stood waiting for the cheers to subside his eyes filled with tears, and he strode nervously from side to side of the narrow platform.

"How can I thank you for this welcome home?" he said.

"My heart would be ungrateful if it did not consecrate itself to your service. It was kind to prepare this reception. It was kind of Governor Folk to come here, all the way from Missouri. It was kind of Tom Johnson, that example of the moral courage we so much need in this country, to lend his presence.

"It was kind in you to fully recompense me in being absent so long from my native land. I thank you. I return to the land of my birth more proud of my citizenship than ever before."

The doors of Madison Square Garden were opened at 5:30 o'clock, and by that time hundreds of ticket holders were clamoring for admittance. Police lines had been formed for three blocks from all the garden entrances. The immense auditorium began to fill so quickly that the ushers and policemen had difficulty in adhering to the seating arrangements. The "Nebraska" Bryan home folks arrived in a body, and were given seats just back of the speaker's stand. Each person was presented with a flag, and the waving of these made a picture such as the garden, a scene of many notable gatherings, has seldom, if ever, witnessed.

Before the meeting was called to order a band played merry tunes, such as "Maryland," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River" and other southern melodies, which called forth tumultuous applause; but when the first strains of "Dixie" were sounded, the thousands of Bryan wellcomers were on their feet in an instant, and the cheers completely drowned the band for a time.

As each notable Democratic visitor entered the hall and was recognized, his name was called and the cheering was renewed.

Twelve thousand patrons, many of them women, were seated by 7 o'clock, and an hour later there was not a vacant seat. The galleries early were jammed.

Hundreds of policemen and firemen were on duty in case of emergency.

Governor Folk was given an ovation. He introduced Mayor Johnson of Cleveland as chairman of the meeting. The applause was deafening as Mr. Johnson came forward. At this moment William R. Hearst entered a reserved box. For two minutes the crowd cheered. Many rose and waved hats and handkerchiefs in the direction of Mr. Hearst's box. Then there were more cheers for Mr. Johnson.

When this joint demonstration had partly subsided Mr. Bryan, accompanied by his wife, entered the garden and appeared on the platform.

The crowd, which had been so free in its cheering before, was now fairly beside itself. The men shouted and jumped on seats, cheered and threw their hats in the air, apparently caring naught as to the ultimate fate of the headgear. The women waved handkerchiefs and cheered as loudly as they could. Five minutes after Mr. Bryan appeared on the platform the crowd howled and cheered, but eventually Chairman Johnson secured comparative quiet, and introduced Augustus Thomas of the Anti-Trust League of Commercial Travelers of the United States, whose every reference to Mr. Bryan called for additional cheers.

Chairman Johnson then introduced Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan was presented at 8:40 o'clock. As he arose the audience was on its feet as one man. The cheering which began at that instant did not end until 8:48, and then not till Mr. Bryan had waved his hands and beat upon the speaker's platform. At first the man for whom the demonstration was formed stood bowing and smiling. Then his attitude was one of appeal.

When Mr. Bryan uttered his first words, "Mr. Chairman," there was tremendous applause.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," he began, after "three cheers for William J. Bryan" had been called for, "how I thank you for this welcome home. My heart would be flint, indeed, if it were not touched by your demonstration. My heart would be ungrateful beyond measure if I did not, in return, consecrate itself to your service."

"It was kind of the Commercial Travelers' Anti-Trust league to prepare this home-coming. It was kind of Governor Folk to come all the way from Missouri to bear all the testimony that he might join in this reception. It was kind in Tom Johnson, that example of moral courage, that we so much need in this country, to lend his presence to this occasion. It was kind of the officers of this league to bring you here. Kind in Mr. Thomas to voice the welcome in words so generous that I could not admit myself worthy of them. Kind in you all to so fully recompense me for any danger that I have encountered, or any sacrifice that I have made in being absent so long from my native land."

"I cannot use a better phrase than the old simple one, 'I thank you.'"

Mr. Bryan was accorded close attention throughout his speech, which was liberally applauded.

TRUSTS GREAT ISSUE.

Bryan Favors Closest Supervision of Organization of Corporations.

New York, Aug. 31.—In his speech Mr. Bryan declared that the trusts were the great issue of the day. He favored the closest supervision of the organization of corporations, and declared that no man should be a director of two or more corporations which deal with each other, or deal in the same line of business. He called for the enforcement of the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust law, and then went into the question of government ownership of railroads, and declared what he had seen in other countries had served to strengthen his conviction on the subject. He saw danger in centralization, however, and for this reason advocated Federal ownership of trunk lines and state ownership of local lines.

He advocated a universal work day of eight hours.

The speaker scored the Republican congress for not passing the legislation urged by President Roosevelt, giving publicity to campaign contributions, but gave the president some praise for what he termed his adoption of Democratic ideas. Mr. Bryan said he hoped the income tax might some day be imposed through an amendment to the constitution. He referred briefly to the recent insurance investigation, and smilingly said that he believed the disclosures made would result in difficulty in securing large campaign contributions in the future.

Of the financial question Mr. Bryan said the unexpected and unprecedented discovery of gold had brought a victory to both the advocate of the gold standard and the advocate of bimetallism.

"The Republicans have gained so much pleasure and some partisan advantage," he said, "from the dissension in our ranks on the money question, and they ought not to begrudge us the pleasure we find in the fact that conditions have removed the cause of discord and dissension."

The only discordant note sounded during the evening was when Mr. Bryan turned to a discussion of Socialism, and declared that the man who says the trust is an economic growth, and has come to stay, is the one who is helping the Socialist. Some one yelled: "Three cheers for Socialism," but the call was drowned in hisses.

Mr. Bryan quickly said: "My friends, I have no objection to any man declaring himself in favor of Socialism, as the Socialist, as a rule, is an honest man. He is seeking what he believes to be a benefit, with argument, and not with abuse. I deny that the trust is an institution necessary for economic purposes. I deny that it is an economic institution at all. It is not economical; it is political. It rests not on natural laws, but on man-made laws."

SECOND SPEECH.

Nebraskan Then Went to Hotel and Met W. R. Hearst.

New York, Aug. 31.—After speaking one hour and ten minutes, during which he declared he was merely expressing his own opinion, and not attempting to forecast the policies of the Democratic party, Mr. Bryan was surrounded by thousands and given an ovation seldom witnessed. Leaving the garden, he made a brief address outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan then went to Hotel Victoria in an automobile. Here Mr. Bryan met Hon. W. R. Hearst and they conversed several minutes.

At 11 o'clock the Nebraskan returned.
